SCHOOL CLOSURE / NATIONAL LOCKDOWN

Sixth Form remains open to students identified as vulnerable or belonging to the families of key workers. Lessons will continue online via TEAMS.

Update

It appears online learning will continue until February half-term (although dates are still to be confirmed). We still await firm guidance on how grades will be awarded to year 13 students, but the following article highlights some of the Department for Education's thinking: <https://schoolsweek.co.uk/revealed-williamson-sets-out-his-plan-for-replacing-exams-this-year/>

This article suggests grades will be awarded as late in the academic year as possible and are likely to encompass a range of evidence from work produced by students as the year progresses. With this in mind it is essential for students to fully engage with remote learning, attending all live lessons, completing all work set and meeting submission deadlines.

Students who are struggling should contact subject teachers or the Sixth Form Team as a matter of priority so appropriate support can be provided. We expect all students to follow timetabled lessons and recommend they follow a regular daily routine akin to being at school. This means setting a time for getting up in the morning, independent working on subjects and for breaks.
