

5 March 2019

Good morning,

We have experienced a few concertinaed (half) days for parents evenings and have found that many students are not turning up for their instrument lessons. There are rooms provided for students to be in and wait for their lesson (LRC or MU2) but we do expect them to attend.

Our peripatetic teachers are contracted in and have a full week's timetable around the county at various schools, so we only have the time given at the start of the year. NMPAT staff are only able to be in CCS at the allocated time.

We appreciate this may not be practical but unfortunately is unavoidable. Should your child's instrument lesson appear on a half day, we would like them to attend, but understand if this is not possible. However, the time is unable to be 'made up' by the NMPAT staff.

Thank you for your understanding,

Louise Readman
